ADHD assessment & the Qb test

The Qb test is a game played on the computer that helps our doctors and nurses assess for Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). ADHD can be when someone finds it hard to concentrate, make quick choices without thinking, feel fidgety, or have lots of energy, especially at school or at home.

You will get the chance to watch a video on how to play the game and then get three practice goes. Sometimes you will be invited back to play the game in a few months. The most important thing to remember, is this is not a test you cannot pass or fail, and there are no right or wrong answers.

Equipment we will use

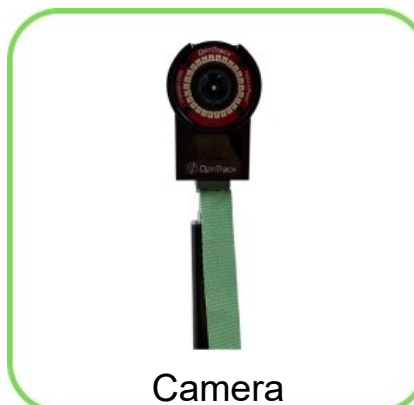

Headband

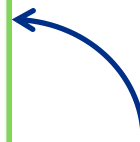

Remote

Laptop

Camera

This camera cannot take any photographs or videos. It can only see the ball on the headband.

What will happen on the day?

You will arrive at the waiting room and check in for your appointment.

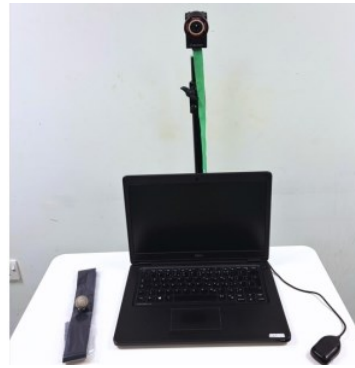

When it is time for your appointment you will meet one of the Qb practitioners who will firstly check your height and weight. For this you will be asked to take your shoes and coat off.

Then we will go into the Qb room, where the Qb practitioner will check your name, birthday, address and parent/guardians phone number.

You will watch a video on how to play the game and get to have a practice.

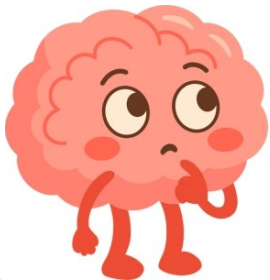

We will talk about all the equipment.

Once we have had a practise we will play the real game. At this point your parents/guardian will sit in the waiting area. After 15 minutes the game will end.

“ During the Qb test your parent/guardian will have to leave the room. and you will be with the Qb practitioner who can help you if you have any problems. ”

There may be students and observers present during your consultation as part of their ongoing training. Please let the staff know if you do not wish any students to be present during your attendance.

Please ask a member of staff if you would like a chaperone present during your procedure.
